Report Abuse

Abuse

Many adults who live at home are at risk of abuse, neglect and financial exploitation by family members and others close to them. Victims of abuse are often isolated, and may be afraid or unable to seek help for themselves. In many cases, the only person outside the family who sees the victim is an in-home service worker; therefore, it is critical that these workers know the signs of abuse and report cases for investigation and services.

Reporting Abuse

Effective 2013, the Illinois Adult Protective Services Act (Public Act 98-0049), formerly the Elder Abuse and Neglect Act, was enacted into law to address the problem of the abuse of an adult with disabilities age 18-59 or a person age 60 years or older who live in their own home. Under the authority of the Act, the Illinois Department on Aging administers a statewide intervention program to respond to reports of alleged abuse, neglect and financial exploitation, and to work with the adult to develop and implement a case plan to stabilize the situation and resolve the abusive circumstances.

The program is based on the adult’s right to self-determination; no decisions are made about a competent adult without that adult’s involvement and consent. Every effort is made to keep the person in his or her own home.

The Adult Protective Services Act provides that people — who in good faith report suspected abuse or cooperate with an investigation — are immune from criminal or civil liability or professional disciplinary action. It further provides that the identity of the reporter shall not be disclosed except with the written permission of the reporter or by order of a court. Anonymous reports are accepted.

To report suspected abuse, neglect or financial exploitation, call 1-866-800-1409, 1-888-206-1327 (TTY) or the local Adult Protective Services provider agency serving your area. By law, in-home service workers must report for adults who cannot report for themselves. Callers should be prepared to report the alleged victim’s name and address, what happened, where and when it happened, who the suspected abuser might be, circumstances which led to the report, and whether the alleged victim is in immediate danger.

Abuse & Neglect Indicators

In-home service workers should be aware of the possibility of abuse and recognize the signs that it is occurring. By making a report to the Adult Protective Services Program, the worker will ensure a trained, objective caseworker follows up to investigate the allegations and help the adult avoid further abuse. While the following indicators do not necessarily signify abuse, neglect or financial exploitation, they can be important clues in helping to assess the client’s situation.

Physical Indicators

- An injury that has not been cared for properly, pain on touching, cuts, lacerations or puncture wounds.
- Weight loss, dehydration or malnourishment not caused by illness.
- Pallor, sunken eyes or cheeks, eye problems or retinal detachment.

Defining Abuse

- Physical abuse (20% of reports) means inflicting physical pain or injury upon an adult.
- Sexual abuse (4% of reports) means touching, fondling or any other sexual activity with an adult, when the person is unable to understand, unwilling to consent, threatened or physically forced.
- Emotional abuse (45% of reports) means verbal assaults, threats of maltreatment, harassment or intimidation. Emotional abuse is often coupled with other forms of abuse.
- Confinement (7% of reports) means restraining or isolating an adult, other than for medical reasons.
- Passive neglect (38% of reports) means the caregiver’s failure to provide an adult with life’s necessities, including, but not limited to, food, clothing, shelter or medical care. No new affirmative duty of care is created.
- Willful deprivation (11% of reports) means deliberately denying an adult medication, medical care, shelter, food, a therapeutic device or other physical assistance, and thereby exposing that person to the risk of physical, mental or emotional harm — except when the dependent person has expressed an intent to forego such care.
- Financial exploitation (58% of reports) means the misuse or withholding of an adult’s resources by another, to the disadvantage of the adult and/or for the profit or advantage of someone else.

- Signs of confinement (locked in a room, tied to furniture or bathroom fixtures).
- Lack of necessary appliances such as walker, cane or bedside commode; lack of heat, food or water; and unsafe conditions at home.

Family/Caregiver Indicators
- The adult may not be able to speak for himself or herself or to see others without the caregiver present.
- Obvious absence of assistance, attitudes of indifference or anger toward the adult.
- Family member blames the adult (such as for incontinence).
- Aggressive behavior toward the adult (threats, insults, harassment or rough physical handling).
- Previous history of abuse to others.
- Withholding of security or affection.

- Unwillingness or reluctance to comply with the care plan.

Indicators of Financial Exploitation
- A caregiver or family member with access to an adult's money appears to use the funds for personal gain rather than for the person, resulting in many unpaid bills or overdue rent, for example.
- An adult does not have adequate food, clothing or personal care items when there appears to be enough money to obtain them.
- An adult is grossly overcharged for residence or services.
- An adult loans large sums of money with no arrangement for repayment.
- An adult complains of deception or theft of property or funds.
- An adult suddenly changes their will or other financial documents.

Victim Profile
The average age of abuse victims is 70 and about 65% of these victims are women. Victims often experience more than one type of abuse with financial exploitation being the most frequently reported and is highly associated with emotional abuse. Many victims live with the abuser and are functionally impaired, meaning they have difficulty performing daily tasks, such as walking, personal care, meal preparation, laundry and house cleaning. Many of these adults are victims of neglect, deprivation, and financial abuse.

The majority of reports are substantiated; that is, some form of abuse is found to be occurring. Eight in 10 victims consent to work with the Adult Protective Services Program to resolve their difficulties.

Abuser Profile
Three in four abusers are family members, the largest category being children, followed by other family members, and spouses.

Female abusers slightly exceed male abusers. Almost half of the abusers are the victim's primary caregiver. About one-fourth of the abusers are financially dependent on the victim, have an alcohol or substance abuse problem and many have limited coping ability.

Program Profile
When a report is received, a trained Adult Protective Services caseworker responds within a specified time period depending on the severity of the case: within 24 hours for life threatening situations, within 72 hours for most neglect and non-threatening physical abuse situations and up to seven days for most emotional abuse or financial exploitation reports.

The low-key approach stresses the desire to work with the adult and his or her family or caregiver to resolve any problems. Depending on the adult's resources, needs and wishes, interventions may include:
- In-home or other health care
- Home care services
- Nutrition services
- Adult day services
- Respite care and support groups for the caregiver
- Housing assistance
- Financial or legal assistance and protections, such as representative payee, direct deposit, trusts, order of protection, civil suit and/or criminal charges
- Counseling referral for the victim and/or the abuser
- When needed, guardianship proceedings and/or nursing home placement
- Emergency responses for housing, food, physical and/or mental health services.

Responding to Abuse
The Adult Protective Services Program can help only those adults at risk who are identified through a report. Don't let someone continue to suffer, call if you suspect abuse. All calls are confidential.
