Illinois DCFS announces new program to provide free smoke alarms to families served by the department

WHAT: The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) announces a new program to provide smoke alarms to families served by the department if they do not have a working smoke alarm in their home. Families served by DCFS may now request smoke alarms from their caseworker or call their local field office directly. Caseworkers will have access to a supply of smoke detectors when visiting families. Illinois law requires every household to have smoke alarms within 15 feet of every bedroom and at least one on each floor of the home.

“Fire prevention experts have documented that smoke alarms save lives,” said Illinois DCFS Acting Director Marc Smith. “The department is committed to doing everything we can to protect Illinois children, and ensuring that every family we serve has a working smoke alarm is one more step we are taking to ensure families and children are safe.”

WHY: According to the National Fire Protection Association:

- Three out of five home fire deaths result from fires in properties without working smoke alarms.
- More than one-third (38%) of home fire deaths result from fires in which no smoke alarms are present.
- The risk of dying in a home fire is cut in half in homes with working smoke alarms.
