When the lives of children are at stake, there is no time to waste. Director Sheldon joined the Department of Children and Family Services in February 2015. After just a little more than one year, Governor Bruce Rauner called a news conference on March 21 to applaud the progress at DCFS.

Changes begin as soon as children enter care and extend to programs that help launch youth into adulthood. For example, DCFS reduced the number of children in shelter care by 50 percent, focusing a renewed emphasis on finding receiving homes as soon as possible. There is a new directive that no child under the age of six spends a night in a shelter.

DCFS also secured more funding to provide services by recovering $20 million in federal reimbursements for services the agency provided to youth aged 18 to 21 in fiscal year 2016. The state is expected to recoup an additional $16 million in the coming years by fixing what boiled down to a paperwork issue.

“Today, under the leadership of Director George Sheldon, the agency has made an impressive transformation to ensure we are protecting our state’s most vulnerable children,” said Gov. Rauner.

While encouraged by progress, the director said that there is more work ahead. The DCFS Strategic Planning and Innovation Division created a BH Decree Implementation Plan for the federal court, responding to a long list of recommendations on how DCFS must improve services for youth. Then on May 12, Director Sheldon presented the 2016-2021 Illinois Child Welfare Strategic Plan. That report is on the DCFS website at www.DCFS.illinois.gov. Comments are welcome and can be sent to dcfs.strategicplan@illinois.gov by August 1.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM BH CONSENT DECREED IMPLEMENTATION PLAN

The complete plan is available at www.DCFS.illinois.gov

Goal: Reduce the use of residential treatment and help children and youth succeed in living in the least restrictive, most family-like setting:

DCFS has started pilots to support youth who are involved in both the child welfare system and the juvenile justice system to include Regenerations and a Dually Involved Youth Pay for Success project. DCFS is also implementing Therapeutic Foster Care (TFC) as an alternative to residential and other institutional placements.

Goal: Retrain and coach front-line staff to consistently provide children and their families access to a wide range of services.

Four "Immersion Sites" have been selected where DCFS will implement a core practice model that allows front-line staff to present families with a full array of interventions that are Family-centered, Trauma-informed and Strength-based (FTS). The new Model of Supervision Practice (MoSP) will instruct supervisors and provide them tools to keep caseworkers’ activities and case progress aligned.

Goal: Improve permanency outcomes for adolescents who enter state custody at age 12 or older.

DCFS is expanding the age of eligibility for state-funded guardianship from 14 to 12. There is pending legislation to include foster parents in the definition of “fictive kin.” This could open another path to permanency for youth who have strong connections with current and former foster families.
Message from the DCFS Director

This month, we recognize the amazing work of our foster families and mark May as Foster Parent Appreciation Month in Illinois. We need to do more than simply express our appreciation for a month. We need to be sure you feel appreciated and respected every day of the year. Foster families have a tremendous responsibility. They have to replace the love and support and wisdom that may have been missing from the lives of children in care. There would be no child welfare system without foster families.

Foster parents are at the forefront of our need to bring normalcy to the children in foster. They’re not “foster kids.” They’re just kids, like every other kid, and we need to give them the freedom to be like other kids without a lot of state rules and we need to give the foster parents the discretion to help their foster kids build friendships and take part in after-school activities and do all the things other kids do.

We also are recognizing that foster parents are more than “temporary parents” and actually need to have a place in the lives of foster children after they leave their foster home. We are expanding the state’s definition of “fictive kin” to treat foster parents like relatives, with an enduring relationship with the child.

I hope you know that at DCFS our gratitude and our efforts on behalf of foster families began before May and will continue. We thank you all for striving every day to restore families and set children on a path for better lives.

George H. Sheldon
Director

Illinois celebrates Foster Parent Appreciation Month

Across the state, individuals are answering the call to open their hearts and homes to children. Foster parents are invaluable members of the child welfare team. May is a great time to highlight the contributions of Illinois foster parents as part of National Foster Care Month activities.

Child Abuse Prevention Month in April

DCFS marked April as Child Abuse Prevention Month with unified activities from Chicago to Edwardsville, with stops in Peoria, Springfield and Carterville.

“The impact of abuse and neglect on a child can take a lifetime to heal and that’s where we as a community can help,” said Director George Sheldon. ◆

Director George Sheldon helped young people decorate the trees with blue ribbons on Chicago’s Michigan Avenue.

DCFS and community partners including Prevent Child Abuse Illinois and the Children’s Advocacy Centers of Illinois sponsored blue ribbon campaigns, blue pinwheel gardens, news conferences and a Twitter “chat” with the University of Chicago Medicine to raise awareness to build safe, healthy families.

To request more than 8 tickets, we will need additional information for verification with the DCFS Inspector General.

DCFS water safety policies help prevent drowning deaths

Drowning is the leading cause of unintentional death for children ages one to four. DCFS is continually reviewing policies and practices to protect children when they are in pools or around water features outside and in the home.

Safety rules for pools

- Above-ground pools have to have non-climbable side walls at least 4 feet high or must be enclosed with fence that is at least 36 inches away from the pool’s side wall, required all the way around the pool.
- When the pool is not in use, steps to access the pool have to be removed or enclosed by a fence.
- All hot tubs have to be fenced, or have a securely-fitted and locked cover.
- Portable pools must be fenced, or be emptied and sanitized daily.

Fences and barriers to entry

Fences that enclose pools must have gates that: open out and away from the pool; have a locking device and are designed to be self-closing and self-latching. All fences must be at least 5 feet in height, without decorative cutouts, indentations or protrusions that could be used as holds to climb the fence.

When a house wall serves as part of a pool barrier, any door or window that provides access to a swimming pool must be equipped with an alarm that sounds for 30 seconds or more within 7 seconds after the door is opened.

Foster homes that had a license or a permit on January 1, 2009 and have had a fence with a minimum height of 3’6” will be considered in compliance. More specific requirements are found in DCFS Policy Guide 2014.14 Swimming Pool and Water hazards in Foster Family Homes.

Training and supervision

Foster care license holders whose homes have pools, hot tubs, ponds, outdoor fountains, decorative water ponds, fishponds or other pools of water must have current first aid and age-appropriate CPR certification.

A child in foster care of any age using a swimming pool, portable pool, spa, hot tub or other pools of water located on the premises of the foster home must always be within line-of-sight supervision by a foster parent or other adult authorized by the foster parent.

The licensed foster parent is responsible for keeping toxic chemicals related to pool maintenance locked up and inaccessible to foster children. When a swimming pool is in use, the foster parent must keep a weekly log to record water quality test results and otherwise maintain the pool in a safe and sanitary condition.

Tips to stay safe around water

Baby pools

- Don’t be lulled into a false sense of security because of the shallowness of baby pools. Children should always be supervised in a baby pool.
- Empty the pool right after use and store it upside-down.

Bathtubs

- Never leave a young child alone in a bathtub or rely on a bathtub seat for safety.
- Don’t allow children to play alone in the bathroom.

Buckets

- Five-gallon buckets of water pose a threat to babies and toddlers who may topple into them and be unable to get out.
- Empty and store all buckets out of children’s reach.

Toilets

- Secure the toilet lid. Curious toddlers could tip headfirst into a toilet, risking drowning.

Ponds, fountains and retention pools

- Be aware of access to water hazards and be prepared in case an emergency response is required. Children require constant supervision around these outdoor hazards.

Get water wise... SUPERVISE!
Each year, throughout the year, the federal government announces major product recalls on cribs, strollers, clothing and children’s toys that have caused injuries and even fatalities. It can be easy to overlook the notices or to underestimate the harm that could come. Caregivers have to be proactive to ensure that youth are safe in their homes.

DCFS rules require foster caregivers of children age six or under to check their homes for products listed as unsafe by the Children’s Product Safety Act. Caregivers should check the lists and remove any recalled items already at home. It is also important to make informed choices about new items that you purchase or accept as gifts. Be on the look out for small pieces that could cause choking or long strings that might strangle.

During home visits, the licensing worker will discuss recalls and obtain needed signatures of the safety forms. Ultimately, it falls on the adults in the home to ensure the safety of the most vulnerable young ones.

Keeping children in clean clothes is a challenge that can also be a safety risk. The convenient laundry “pods” of pre-measured and pre-packaged detergent for a single load have contributed to poisonings of young children.

Children may see the packets and put them in their mouths, thinking it is candy. The highly concentrated detergent can cause comas, respiratory stress and death.

Caregivers should keep laundry pods and dishwasher tablets in a container that is closed, sealed and stored high, out of the reach of children. Call the local poison center at 800-222-1222 immediately if a child is believed to have come in contact with laundry detergent or a pod.

Every 24 minutes tipped furniture or a falling TV sends an injured child to the emergency room.

To prevent a tip-over tragedy…

• Use sturdy furniture
• Secure your TV to a wall, even if it isn’t a wall-mounted TV
• Mount flat-screen TVs
• Follow manufacturer’s instructions to secure TVs and furniture properly
• Secure top heavy furniture with anti-tip brackets
• Remove tempting objects from the top of the TV
• CRT televisions should be placed on furniture designed to hold a TV and be anchored.

Know your rights and responsibilities in the Foster Parent Law

The Foster Parent Law, enacted in 1995, is a foundation for providing foster care in Illinois. The statement of 15 rights still helps foster parents, agencies and DCFS regional foster care programs know what role the foster parent will play as a respected member of the child welfare team. The statement of 17 responsibilities helps prospective foster parents know what will be expected of them before they decide to become foster parents and gives current foster parents a clear understanding of the general expectations of the agency or DCFS region. The Law also requires a grievance process for resolving Foster Parent Law related issues.

A full text of the entire Foster Parent Law is included in the Foster Parent Handbook and is on the DCFS website at www.dcfs.illinois.gov ♥

Statewide Foster Care Advisory Council Update

The Statewide Foster Care Advisory Council traveled to Alton in March to bring the meeting to the Southern Region. The April meeting was conducted by conference call.

Emergency Foster Homes
In Alton, council members received an update on plans to establish designated emergency foster homes. This pilot is slated to roll out in the next fiscal year. Emergency foster homes will provide children a traditional home environment for up to 14 days during the search for relatives and fictive kin. Caregivers would receive training and funding for this type of care. DCFS and private agencies are now identifying two-parent homes with only one parent working outside the home as potential emergency foster homes.

Implementation Plans Progress
The council completed scoring the 53 Foster Parent Law Implementation Plans. Members also conducted in-person agency reviews in April.

The Statewide Foster Care Advisory Council was founded in conjunction with the Illinois Foster Parent Law. Membership consists of caregivers, agency representatives and other experts in child welfare, who are appointed by the DCFS director. The council holds open meetings at least six times a year, in locations around the state.

The next meeting of the Statewide Foster Care Advisory Council will be on June 17 in Lisle at 9 a.m. Call DCFS Caregiver and Parent Support at 217-524-2422 for details.

Learning continues after adoption
Adoptive and guardianship parents still have access to the DCFS training opportunities. As children grow older or when their needs change, caregivers should expand their knowledge with up-to-date training.

The in-service training modules are available online so a parent can learn at a time that is convenient and from anywhere with Internet access. Adoptive and guardianship families can also attend all DCFS training sessions that are open to foster parents. The list of online courses and the schedule for other offerings is on the DCFS Virtual Training Center (VTC) at www.dcfstraining.org. Questions can be directed to the Registration Line during business hours by calling 877-800-3393.

Illinois Adoption Advisory Council
The Illinois Adoptive Advisory Council meets six times a year with the mission to advise DCFS on all matters involving or affecting adoption and guardianship services.

The council addresses ways to preserve and expand funding for post-adoption and adoption preservation services, and to improve the permanency outcomes for teens and other children.

Council members are all appointed by the DCFS Director. Membership includes adoptive parents and adopted persons, as well as experts in child welfare and adoption from DCFS and other agency partner organizations. All meetings are open.

The next meeting of the Illinois Adoption Advisory Council will be June 3 at 10 a.m. in Normal. For details, contact DCFS Caregiver and Parent Support at 217-524-2422.
Northern Region speaks up for Foster Parent Appreciation

In honor of Foster Parent Appreciation Month we asked Northern Region foster families to fill in the blank with their own answer to the question:

What I find gratifying about foster care?...

“I love to be able to provide a loving family to help heal children. My family has treated these children as their own and have given them a sense of security and belonging!” – Janis Diasio

“The most rewarding and gratifying feeling about being a foster parent is being able to love and give the children the opportunity to flourish. I enjoy taking the children out to see different places like the zoo and museums and traveling to different states.” – Anita Sanders

“The experience of fostering is so satisfying on a bunch of levels. I have opportunities to grow as a person by being offered information on so many topics from family interaction to legal advice that can be applied to many other circumstances besides fostering. I count myself as lucky to be part of this program!” – Holly Neagle

“It was a joy to bring safety and happiness to one sweet little girl.” – Joyce Zimmerman

“We have found ways to communicate and develop relationships with the children’s parents when appropriate. The most rewarding aspect of fostering is watching the children grow, seeing their pure joy when they experience life for the first time or the pride they have when they finally succeed.” – Julie Blackburn

“It’s the funny things I hear! One of my girls, age 16, was trying to blow out a candle on the coffee table…until I told her it was battery operated!” – Diane Boyer

“We’ve only fostered one teen so far but even through some of the trouble with us all learning rules, boundaries and overcoming fears... She is an absolutely lovely teen. I hope other families in my area meet her and want to become foster parents to teens because these lovely teens need help. God has blessed us with the opportunity to be in this girl’s life. In many ways she’s brought us pure joy.” – Laura Binning

Message from the DCFS Northern Region Administrator

In my time as Northern regional administrator, I have met with many foster parents and have gained valuable insight into what it is to be a foster parent. I see your commitment to our children as you advocate at school, with therapists, with doctors and with many more who represent the child welfare system. As foster parents you have worked relentlessly to find solutions that work best for the children in their care. That perseverance and commitment is exactly what is needed to make the future brighter for youth in your care and to launch them toward successful adult life.

As Northern regional administrator, I continue to assist you in addressing barriers that may hinder your efforts to meet the needs of our children. If you do not attend already, I invite you to join in the Foster Care Advisory Council activities in the DCFS.

Northern region, as well as foster parent groups sponsored by private agencies and in your community. When we listen and learn from each other, good things can happen. Please accept my special thank you for all that you do every day to ensure the well being of all our children. The Month of May has been set aside to show you special appreciation – for that I am thankful and for you I am very thankful. ♥

Appreciate the strength in numbers at a local support group

Foster care is not a solo effort. It takes a team. Sometimes the most valuable team members can be those fellow foster parents who can truly understand and share their experiences. Many of the agencies in the Northern Region and the DCFS regional foster care program sponsor support groups and associations to keep foster families connected and informed. Below is a list of groups that have asked to be part of the annual round-up. Find a meeting near your home and begin building your network.

Briana, 12, is a young lady with a very pleasant personality. She gets along well with peers and adults. Briana also does well in school. Her current caregiver has very positive things to share about Briana and is very supportive. She says Briana works well and contributes to the household and has good behavior at home.

Briana’s forever family is one that can work closely with child welfare professionals to help meet Briana’s emotional and behavioral needs. You can also work with professionals within the school to help meet her educational needs. Briana would like a one or two parent home and prefers a family that resides in the suburbs of Chicago, but she is open.

Hanna, 15, is an affectionate child who gets along well with others. She makes friends easily, loves playing with dogs and cats, and is respectful toward adults. Her hobbies include playing outside, coloring, and watching her favorite television shows. She is eager to be adopted, and is excited about the prospect of joining a forever family.

Hanna’s worker says she is an intelligent child who listens to her teachers, enjoys doing her homework, and receives good grades in school. Potential parents for Hanna can provide her a loving, supportive home environment. You can make sure she has plenty of positive outlets for her boundless energy. You can also work with professionals who can help you understand, and meet, her emotional and developmental needs. Hanna says, “I want to have fun and be part of a family!” Other children in the home should be older than Hanna.

Stetson, 13, is an inquisitive, open-minded young man who is constantly willing to try new things. He enjoys staying active and would love to have the opportunity to partake in various sports, such as basketball, soccer, and football. He also enjoys playing with remote control toys and building with LEGO pieces. Stetson is caring toward others and is always there to lend a helping hand to someone in need.

Stetson’s caseworker reports that he is a generally friendly young man who is helpful when others ask for assistance. His teacher reports no issues with school behavior and says that she likes having him in her class because he continues to do well there. His teacher also says that Stetson is polite and cooperative.

To be the right family for Stetson, you can help Stetson explore his desire to be more involved in sports and other extracurricular activities. You can also continue regular visits with his brother, so the boys can maintain their close relationship. Stetson would do best with a family that can appropriately address his medical and educational needs, and that includes a positive male figure for him to look up to.

Tyrone or TJ, age 11, enjoys reading, especially historical books and the “Harry Potter” series of novels. He also likes to play video games; one of his favorites is “Minecraft.” He is an active child who enjoys playing basketball and absolutely loves to swim. He is also interested in playing the trombone and the tuba. In school, he enjoys history and his greatest strength is in reading. TJ is helpful around the home, and always strives to please his foster parents.

TJ’s future family should have experience with, or want to learn about, children who have had a traumatic childhood and display the behavior that can come along with that history. His adoptive family should be outgoing, understanding, and caring. They should also be active, inquisitive, and willing to spend a lot of one-on-one time with him. This family can work with professionals to address his educational and emotional needs. TJ would like a family that will “allow for me to still see my sister.”

Please call the Illinois Center for Adoption & Permanency at 1-800-572-2390, or visit the iCAP website at www.illinoiscap.org if you are interested in adopting one of these children or learning about other children who are waiting to be adopted.
