¡BIENVENIDOS!

Welcome! to this great platform of Noticias (News), highlighting great community events, resources, colleague's accomplishments, cultural spotlights and much more exciting information. Noticias is shared twice a year with all DCFS and POS teams.

I'm thankful for having this opportunity to share little more about me. First, it is a great honor for me as the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services-Latino Advisory Council Chair Person to represent our Latino and Hispanic community within IDCFS and POS's child welfare community.

I started my Child welfare journey about 14 years ago in the private sector/Purchase of Services (POS) and then joined IDCFS team; I have embraced all Child Welfare learning experiences, the spirit of serving others and being an agent of change.

Who are the Latino Advisory Council members?

All members of the Latino Advisory Council, in advising the director promote the values of social justice. In 1988 an idea came to establish a Hispanic Advisory Committee centered in Chicago and the surrounding area. In 1992, the Committee became statewide, expanding its membership to include DCFS employees and private agency staff from outside of Cook County. Throughout the years, many IDCFS and private agencies professionals have gotten together and contributed in many areas to the work of the Hispanic Advisory Committee (today known as the Latino Advisory Council). Many Latino/Hispanic professionals have and are currently working together in the areas of advocacy and professional development focusing on improving Spanish speaking services for the children, youth and families we serve, shaping Latino professionals' skills and practices, and strengthening the collaborative work and partnerships around the state. For these reasons I believe that having been part of the Latino Advisory Council is an honor and requires a strongly committed team. I invite each of you to join this great advocacy journey and make a difference in our Illinois Communities.

Sincerely,

Yeni Rojas

Latino Advisory Council Chairperson
Illinois Department of Children and Family Services

Meet the Gastons

By Julia Monzón

This month as the Gaston Family shares their story at the Professional Day Conference Raul and Maritza Gaston will celebrate their wedding anniversary. Little did they know then that in October they would come to celebrate their Family Day. The anniversary of the day that Raul, Maritza, Brianna and Yazmin (Jazzy) legally became a family.

Raul and Maritza grew up in Chicago's Humboldt Park Neighborhood. They both attended neighborhood middle and high schools. By the time they were ready for college they were married. Both worked while attending school. They both wanted to become teachers, so they took most of the same classes to save money on books. Maritza would do her homework after dinner and Raul would take the books with him to work to study there. Of course, they had plenty of study time together.

After graduating with their BA degrees from Eastern Illinois University, Maritza chose to teach elementary school and Raul older students. Raul had a dual major of education and Spanish language, so he was able to teach Spanish.

In 2002, Raul and Maritza became foster parents, in Urbana Champaign where their daughters, Brianna and Yazmín, became part of their lives. They later moved to DuPage County where the family continued to solidify, thrive and overcome diverse challenges of adoption including the fall out of the psychological trauma of being foster children which intensifies during adolescence.

Raul states, “it’s not always what you sign up for. It’s a journey, you have to be flexible and roll with the punches.” His advice is, “do your homework, gather materials, resources, take your time, and consider the financial aspects. Taking in two infant girls led to two major shopping expeditions.

Raul stayed at home with Yasmin because they received her as a newborn straight out of the hospital and Maritza had just started a new job at an elementary school. He requested a leave of absence from work because at that time, infants had to be at least six weeks old to attend day care. They had planned on fostering a 4 or 5 year and were not considering adoption.

Several months later, the caseworker contacted them about fostering Brianna, she was 14 months old at the time. Brianna didn't understand English and needed a bilingual home. Briana and Yazmin share the same birth mother. His wife was visiting her mother in Chicago at the time, so Raul had to care for Brianna on his own. The parting comment of the caseworker who placed Brianna was, "Oh, and she is fearful of men." Yet Raul rose to the challenge. Raul and Brianna were able to connect through everyday living activities with Raul as her caretaker. They had outings, ice cream and play time. After Maritza returned from Chicago, she took her turn and established her own relationship with Brianna. With two infants to care for, Maritza decided to leave her job and stay home to raise the girls. She returned to work after the girls started middle school. Both girls graduated high school with honors and took AP college courses.

That brings us to the present day. How is the family doing now? Recently, Raul and Maritza have noticed that Brianna has become more mature in her attitudes. She recently commented to her mother that she had a really nice stove. Something she would have never noticed in the recent past. Even so, she brought tears to her mother's eyes when she expressed her sincere heartfelt gratitude to her for actually becoming her mother and raising her.

Currently Brianna is engaged to be married this summer and resides with her fiancé in Chicago. At 20, she is two years older than Maritza was she was wed. She left school when the pandemic hit but plans to return now that the things seem to be tapering down. Brianna is quite artistic with make-up and hair and looks forward to earning her license so she can practice professionally.

Jazzy, who played in a band during high school still loves music and is involved in her own music musical production. At 18 years of age, she attends Northern Illinois University in DeKalb and wants to become a psychologist and conduct research.

Maritza teaches a dual language first grade class and Raul is the Principal of Jefferson Middle School and the President Elect of the Illinois Principals Association.
