

Sportsmen Against Hunger Completes 15 Years

Thanks to the generosity of thousands of Illinois deer hunters, over the past 15 years the Illinois Sportsmen Against Hunger program has realized a donation of 571,998 pounds of venison, which equates to an astounding 1.9 million healthy meals for needy Illinois families.

Also playing a significant role in this program are the meat processors who accept white-tailed deer from successful sportsmen and prepare it for distribution to food banks, pantries, kitchens. Last year, nearly 50 meat processors from 39 counties facilitated the program by processing venison into two-pound packages for distribution through 54 venues.

the last 5 years (2004-2008), with donations the last two seasons accounting for an amazing 37 percent of the total.

Why the sudden spike in donations? One reason donations increased in 2007 was the addition of meat processors throughout the state, making it much more convenient for hunters to drop off their deer.

Perhaps the decrease this past season is due in part to the economic downturn and fact that some hunting families are relying more on the game they harvest to feed their own family. Unfortunately, the decrease could not have occurred at a worse time. Also last year, the number of food banks and pantries asking to be recipients significantly increased.

Tax-deductible donations, revenues from the purchase of annual big buck and more pins and an annual appropriation from the Wildlife and Fish Fund (license/permit revenues) provide the financial support necessary to operate this extraordinary program. In 1994, the first year of the program, administrators were extremely pleased with the donation of 4,800 pounds of venison.

Since then, donations have climbed nearly every year. Sixty-eight percent of donations have, however, occurred in
