Welcome to Illinois! Thank you for picking up an Illinois State Parks guide to help plan your visit to our great state parks.

Illinois has an amazing array of state parks, fish and wildlife areas, conservation and recreation areas, and state forests, with an even wider display of natural features and outdoor recreation opportunities.

Illinois state parks boast some of the most unique landscapes in America, including the Lake Michigan shore at Illinois Beach; the river bluff vistas above the mighty Mississippi at Mississippi Palisades; the famed canyons and waterfalls at Starved Rock; the rare plants on the hill prairies of Jim Edgar Panther Creek; the sandstone walls of Giant City; and the internationally renowned bottomland swamps along the Cache River.

Recreation opportunities abound, with anglers enjoying lakes, rivers, and streams at our parks and downstate reservoirs. Hunters can check out seasonal opportunities that make Illinois state parks a prime destination for visitors from across the country.

Campers can go online to reserve a full-service campsite at dozens of locations, stay in a state park campground cabin, or pitch a tent in primitive seclusion. Our rustic state park lodges offer friendly accommodations, sumptuous food, and breathtaking settings.

Bicycle paths, rugged mountain bike trails, and equestrian trails are ready to be explored. This guide, produced in partnership with the American Park Network, is provided by the Illinois Department of Natural Resources to enhance your enjoyment of all that outdoor Illinois has to offer. It is made possible by the support of many sponsors.

Here’s hoping you plan a day trip to a state park, a weekend at a state park campground or lodge, or a hike in a state forest. Find more details on all our Illinois State Parks have to offer at www2.illinois.gov/dnr.

Once again, welcome and enjoy your visit to the outdoors in Illinois!

Sincerely,

We live in an age when it’s getting harder and harder to define “normal.” If there’s one constant that makes life a little easier, it’s time spent outdoors. America’s diverse system of parks are a great source of comfort for millions of visitors. Now more than ever, we need to regain our balance in the sanctuary that nature provides. In addition to respecting the irreplaceable natural, cultural and historic resources of our parks, let’s all please be especially aware of the need to be well-mannered and respectful of one another.

Recreate Responsibly. The CDC encourages physical activity to keep our minds sharp and our bodies healthy.

As a yoga instructor (a side passion) whose dad was a gym teacher, I couldn’t agree more! Having led socially-safe yoga classes in Central Park throughout the pandemic, I know that added precautions take a little extra effort, but the payoff is totally worth it! Let’s all work together to keep our parks safe, both for friends and families, as well the tens of thousands who rely on the them for their livelihoods and who we rely on to make the visitor experience so memorable.

Park and healthcare professionals are working hard to continually monitor and update us on the latest learning, which, as of this printing, include the following recommendations:

- Wear a mask when indoors or in crowded outdoor spaces. (Note, mask regulations are changing and may vary on local, state and federal levels, so please check official government websites to see current rules.)
- Stay six feet apart from people who aren’t in your household. (It’s easy when you go for a hike!)
- Check on evolving CDC updates and local conditions before you leave home, as well as with park officials on changing services, schedules and regulations.
- Consider postponing risky activities that challenge your limits, so first responders are available for pandemic-related emergencies.
- Reschedule your trip if you’re experiencing COVID-like symptoms and please get vaccinated if you’re eligible.

There’s tons of fun to be had in the new normal, especially in our parks. We just need to be a little more conscious of our surroundings, especially when our favorite aunt (or uncle) isn’t around to remind us to wash our hands! Be well and stay safe...

“Good manners are free, so spread them around!”
– Your Favorite Aunt

HIKING & BIKING TRAILS

TRAIL NETWORKS

As it loops more than 500 miles between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River, the Grand Illinois Trail connects existing trails and on-road bike routes to create the state’s longest continuous trail.

Illinois is also home to the Route 66 Bike Trail. From Chicago to St. Louis, this 400-mile route incorporates on- and off-road segments on or near the historic route. Experience the magic of Route 66 from behind your handlebars.

The Mississippi River Trail, a 585-mile route through Illinois, starts in Minnesota and ends in Louisiana. You can really appreciate the majesty of “Old Man River” as you meander through towns that developed along it.

IDNR TRAILS

The Rock Island State Trail, near Peoria, is the first rail-trail conversion to be handled by the IDNR. The trail offers natural and architectural attractions in a tree-canopied corridor that is only 50 to 100 feet wide. It stretches for 26 miles from Peoria County to Stark County. The IDNR manages 45 miles of cycling/walking trails at Tunnel Hill State Trail in southern Illinois. Also a rail conversion, the trail traverses a 540-foot-long tunnel built in 1870-1871.

The Hennepin Canal Parkway, located near Sheffield, offers more than 100 miles of trail along the historic canal. It was the first American canal built of concrete without stonecut facings and was a model for the construction of the Panama Canal. Visitors to the 96-mile Illinois & Michigan Canal near Morris can visit nearby state parks and check out restored historical sites. There is an abundance of wildlife and distinctive landscapes, from bluffs to rolling hills.

SPORTFISHING

attract millions of anglers. The most commonly caught fish in the one-million-acre portion of Lake Michigan owned by Illinois are salmon, perch, and trout. The IDNR stocks nearly one million fish annually, including lake (shown), rainbow, brown, and steelhead trout, as well as chinook and coho salmon.

Three of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers reservoirs are popular for sportfishing: Lake Shelbyville, Carlyle Lake, and Rend Lake. They are stocked annually with muskie, walleye, and largemouth bass at Lake Shelbyville; largemouth bass, crappie, and sauger at Carlyle Lake; and largemouth and hybrid striped bass at Rend Lake.

Illinois has more than 91,000 other impoundments. Most of these stocked lakes and ponds are man-made and private. Each year, about 350 public lakes and ponds are supplementally stocked with species such as walleye, muskie, channel catfish, striped bass, hybrid striped bass, and largemouth bass. More than 26,000 miles of streams lace the state where anglers vie for catfish, along with black bass, walleye, sauger, crappie, and sunfish.

FISHING CLINICS
Free fishing clinics are offered as part of the Illinois Community Outreach & Resource Enhancement (CORE) Fishing Program. Its mission is to promote conservation of Illinois’ aquatic resources. The program operates sites statewide and sponsors in-school, seasonal, and special event clinics for children under 16.

The clinics teach sportfishing ethics, fish ecology, fish identification, fishing techniques, and the care and preparation of caught fish. Participants in the program receive hands-on experience by using various types of fishing equipment provided by the IDNR. Sessions conclude with a supervised fishing trip to a stocked site. All bait and fishing tackle are provided free of charge.

For more information, contact regional fishing coordinators at:
Region 1 & 2: (815) 732-4260
Region 3: (217) 649-7376
Regions 4 & 5: (618) 786-3323
Chicago area: (847) 294-4134

FISHING LICENSES
Fishing licenses are available to residents and nonresidents at most IDNR State Park offices, through various vendors around the state, such as sporting goods stores, bait shops and online at ifishillinois.org. Fishing licenses are effective March 1 of the issuing year and expire March 31 of the following year. Fishing license fees vary and are subject to change. For more information, please call (217) 782-2965.

Illinois anglers must have a sportfishing license in their possession while fishing (residents under age 16 and those who are legally blind or disabled are exempt). Resident landowners and their tenants may fish without a license in waters on or flowing over land on which they reside. Illinois residents on active duty in the armed forces may fish without a license while on leave.

A salmon stamp, affixed to a regular fishing license, is required to take salmon or trout in Lake Michigan. There is a half price senior's license for those over 65 and a $1.00 plus handling fee for those over 75. An inland trout stamp is required for those taking trout in waters other than Lake Michigan. A 24-hour sportfishing license is available for residents and nonresidents. Nonresidents must buy a nonresident sportfishing license to fish in the state. Exceptions include those under age 16, disabled veterans, and anglers using fee-fishing areas licensed by the IDNR. Three types of licenses are available: annual, three-day, and 24-hour. For more information about fishing regulations, where to purchase a license or license fees, call (217) 782-6424.

HATCHERIES
Three hatcheries produce approximately 12 million fish annually, including chinook and coho salmon, rainbow, and brown trout, walleye, sauger, muskie, northern pike, largemouth and smallmouth bass, striped and hybrid-striped bass, crappie, bluegill, redear sunfish, and channel and blue catfish. Visit the following facilities:

Jake Wolf Memorial Fish Hatchery: 25410 Fish Hatchery Road, Topeka, IL 61567; (309) 968-7531
LaSalle Fish Hatchery: 2649 North 21st Road, Marseilles, IL 61341; (815) 357-6986
Little Grassy Fish Hatchery: 1258 Hatchery Lane, Makanda, IL 62958; (618) 529-4100

AQUATIC EXOTICS
Exotic species invade the lakes and rivers of Illinois, preying on and competing with native species. Recreational water users can unintentionally transfer exotic species from one body of water to another. Help prevent the spread of aquatic exotics by following these steps:

HUNTERS/ANGLERS
- Switch to elliptical, bulb-shaped, or strap anchors on decoys to avoid collecting submerged and floating aquatic plants.
- Dispose of unwanted bait in the trash or on land.
- Clean and dry anything that comes in contact with water.
- Drain water from bait buckets before leaving any body of water.
- Remove mud, plants, or animals on boat, boots, anchors, decoy lines, and other equipment.

BOATERS
Before leaving the boat launch:
- Drain boat of all lake or river water.
- Remove any plants and animals from the boat, trailer, and all other equipment.

After leaving the boat launch:
- Wash all equipment with 104°F tap water or a high-pressure sprayer.
- Dry all equipment for at least five days.
- Be a hero, transport zero!
HUNTING
Illinois is an exceptional place to hunt small game, waterfowl, turkey, and deer. Public hunting areas managed by the IDNR, along with privately owned hunt clubs, offer access to thousands of hunters each year. Portions of Illinois are major wintering grounds for Canada geese. With the Canada goose season extending well into January, these local and migratory birds provide ample opportunity to waterfowl hunters.

A number of public and private hunting areas along the Illinois and Mississippi rivers are good sites for hunting mallards and other ducks.

White-tailed deer abound throughout the state, and are as large and robust as any in the country.

Wild turkey (shown) hunting is permitted in most of the state’s 102 counties. The most popular hunting seasons are the five firearm/archery seasons in the spring, but turkey hunters also enjoy a fall season. Upland game—such as cottontail rabbit, ring-necked pheasant, and bobwhite quail—are still the backbone of the hunting tradition in Illinois.

Rabbits are found virtually statewide. Pheasants are generally limited to central and northern Illinois, and quail are found in much of southern and central Illinois. Hunting begins in August and September with squirrel and dove seasons.

Several public areas allow squirrel hunting; sunflower fields cultivated in public hunting areas offer the challenge of dove hunting.

Hunters must obtain permission to hunt on private property. Poaching is strictly prohibited. To report poaching, contact the Target Poachers Hot Line at (877) 236-7529 or visit www2.illinois.gov/dnr/LawEnforcement.

HUNTING LICENSES
Licenses are available to residents and nonresidents at the IDNR Headquarters, as well as through sporting goods stores, bait shops and online at www2.illinois.gov/dnr or by calling (217) 782-2965. Illinois hunters are required to have licenses. Exceptions exist for hunters with physical disabilities, members of the armed services on leave, and resident landowners or tenants hunting on property where they permanently reside.

Hunting and trapping licenses and state stamps are effective January 1 of the issuing year to March 31 of the following year and prices vary according to type. Call (217) 782-2965 for more information.
The IDNR is committed to providing greater access and programs for people with disabilities. The IDNR’s goal is to make it easier for disabled people to hunt, fish, and pursue outdoor activities. In 1999, the IDNR addressed these issues, establishing a new program entitled “Disabled Outdoor Opportunities.” Objectives for this program include:

- Establish partnerships with organizations representing people with disabilities and working to mainstream IDNR programs and facilities to better meet the needs of the disabled.
- Develop and coordinate training programs. Provide knowledge with respect to needs and concerns by working with IDNR site planners to create barrier-free designs for recreational facilities.
- Review existing opportunities to eliminate barriers to participation.
- Develop and coordinate training programs. Provide knowledge with respect to needs and concerns by working with IDNR site planners to create barrier-free designs for recreational facilities.

Disabled hunters can participate in deer, pheasant, waterfowl, and dove hunting at various sites throughout Illinois. A number of fishing areas are accessible as well. IDNR’s intention is to expand these opportunities so that more individuals may participate.

Outdoor Recreation & Retention Programs at (618) 435-8138, ext. 130; TTY (217) 782-9175; www2.illinois.gov/dnr/doo.

Deer and wild turkey hunters, and those wishing to hunt in certain state areas, must obtain special permits. Contact IDNR offices at (217) 782-7305.

Hunters born on or after January 1, 1980, must prove successful completion of the IDNR’s Hunter Education course or a recognized safety course from another state before a license is issued.

First-time hunters should take a safety course that covers hunter responsibility, firearm safety, wildlife conservation, and wildlife identification. Call (800) 832-2599 (only in Illinois) or (217) 557-9206 for more information. For the Firearm Owner’s Identification Card, Illinois residents can call the State Police at (217) 782-7980.

Those hunting migratory birds must register (at no cost) with the National Migratory Bird Harvest Information Program before they hunt.

The program collects important harvest information on waterfowl, doves, woodcock, and other migratory game birds. A State Habitat Stamp is required for all persons age 16 or older who hunt wildlife, except those who hunt migratory waterfowl, coots and hand-reared birds on licensed hunting preserves and state-controlled pheasant-hunting areas. A State Habitat Stamp is also required of any person age 16 or older who traps or sells the green hides of fur-bearing mammals. Veterans with disabilities, former prisoners of war, and any person who obtained a lifetime license before January 1, 1993, are exempt. All those 16 or older who hunt migratory waterfowl...

STATE PARK INTERPRETIVE PROGRAMS

Many state parks have visitor centers and offer year-round interpretive programs to help visitors learn about Illinois’ natural features, wildlife, and park facilities. When staff is not available at certain parks, visitor centers provide educational exhibits and audio/visual programs. Special programming for Illinois school children includes hands-on activities that encourage learning by touching, seeing, and listening to the environment. School group programs are available by reservation only.

For more information about state interpretive programs, please refer to the regional charts in this guide for their location, contact the individual park directly, or call the program manager at (217) 782-7026.

FOR YOUR SAFETY

Upland game hunters who use firearms must wear a solid, blaze-orange cap when hunting. In firearm deer season, hunters (except waterfowl hunters) and trappers are required to wear a solid blaze-orange upper outer garment, equaling 400 square inches, and a blaze-orange cap. To prevent exhaustion, frostbite, and hypothermia, avoid hunting in extreme weather.
Unlike the agricultural fields existing in the region today, prairies and deciduous forests once covered much of east-central Illinois. The area around Lincoln Trail State Park, with its scrubby oak and dense hazel brush, was largely unsettled until the National Road passed through in 1827. This part of the state is also home to man-made lakes at Clinton and Shelbyville, which create a range of recreational opportunities.

Abraham Lincoln’s connection to Illinois began in this region in 1830 when he and his father, cousin, and stepbrother built a log cabin in Macon County after arriving there from southern Indiana. The cabin was dismantled in 1876 and moved to the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, but the Lincoln Trail Homestead State Memorial commemorates the site today. The Lincoln Log Cabin in Coles County was the last home of Thomas and Sarah Bush Lincoln, Abraham’s parents.

Although much of Illinois has landscape shaped by glacial activity, this is not the case with the extreme northwest corner. Its rolling hills, limestone cliffs, and rugged terrain owe their existence to erosion by the Mississippi River and local tributaries.

Among noteworthy names aligned with this area is John Deere, who in 1837 made the first steel plow. The home that Ulysses S. Grant lived in prior to the Civil War can be toured in historic Galena, and the birthplace of poet and Lincoln biographer Carl Sandburg is open to visitors in Galesburg.

Remnants of the great prairies that once covered nearly 60 percent of the land are evident in Northeast Illinois, as are most of the state’s glacial lakes and true bogs. The six miles of Illinois Beach dunes along Lake Michigan display thousands of years of geologic development and nearly 700 different plant species.

The Wea tribe of Miami occupied the Illinois Beach State Park area at the end of the 17th century. In 1802, Fort Dearborn was erected in Chicago on land used by the Potawatomi and Ottawa. Ten years later, U.S. forces abandoned the fort and, by 1830, fewer than 100 people lived there. However, following the 1832 Black Hawk War, Chicago’s population swelled to 1,800 people, and the city was established as a shipping port by 1838. For more information about sites in northeast Illinois, contact Region 2 Office, Tri-County State Park, 2050 West Stearns Road, Bartlett, IL 60103; (847) 608-3100; Hours are Monday to Friday 8:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m., dnr.r2parks@illinois.gov.

OhRanger.com | ILLINOIS STATE PARKS 43
Working together with both residents and visitors, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) strives to protect the state’s diverse wildlife and scenic beauty for present and future generations to enjoy.

FORESTRY & NATURE PRESERVES

The state’s forests, which comprise 12 percent of Illinois’ land area, provide habitat to wildlife and more than 250 species of trees. Since most of the population lives in urban areas, the benefits of urban forests—temperature modification, energy conservation, abatement of air, water and noise pollution—have become increasingly valuable to the state of Illinois.

The Illinois Nature Preserves System, the oldest such system in the nation, comprises 513 sites encompassing more than 94,133 acres of registered land and water and allowing public access (at owner’s discretion) to prairies, forests, marshes, swamps, fens, and savannas.

DIVISION OF NATURAL HERITAGE

The Division of Natural Heritage coordinates conservation efforts aimed at protecting some of the state’s rarest natural resources. It works in partnership with the Illinois Nature Preserves Commission to implement monitoring and recovery efforts for imperiled natural communities.

The Illinois Conservation Foundation (ICF) inspires today’s youth—tomorrow’s leaders—by providing quality outdoor education and programs that instill interest in conservation, ecology and sustainability. As a private charitable organization, the ICF is dedicated to providing future generations opportunities to experience and learn the value of our state’s natural resources.

As an independent 501(c)(3) charity, the ICF does not receive taxpayer funds and is supported entirely through private donations. Created in 1994 on the recommendation of the Conservation Congress, the ICF has administered more than $30 million in federal, private, and conservation organization grants and has assisted in executing private land donations to the IDNR. The charity also provides an avenue for funding of statewide conservation efforts, youth outdoor educational activities, scholarships, and other additional projects to inspire our next generation of conservation leaders.

In 2010, the Torstenson Family made a generous gift to the ICF of 750 acres near Rockford. This property features conservation education activities for children and families, tailored specifically for each visitor. There is a Learning Center for classroom activities, a fishing pond, camping areas, a shooting range for hunter safety, and much more. Programs can also be taken into the community thanks to the Torstenson Education Station, a 20-foot trailer accommodating nearly all educational programs provided at the property.

For more information, to book the property or trailer, or to make a tax-deductible gift to support activities that share these great lessons with youth in Illinois, please visit ilconservation.org or call (217) 785-2003.

PHOTOGRAPHY

Traveling light? Left your DSLR at home? Fear not, you can still take amazing photos using your cell phone. While the learning curve to using a camera phone isn’t too steep, there are definitive steps that you can take to capture better images. The following tips should work with any phone, and cost nothing to make big improvements to your cell phone photography.

Before you start, get to know your device inside and out. Take some time to learn all your camera phone’s modes; most have a variety of image formats—square, panoramic and the common 3x2 aspect ratio found in most Digital SLRs. The more accustomed you become to using the tools on your phone, the easier it will be to change your settings and take additional photos. And don’t underestimate the basics—clean your camera lens before you take pictures; learn to snap photos without tapping the screen to minimize camera shake; and invest in a tripod to stabilize your phone.

The basic principles of taking a photograph are the irrespective of the type of camera you are using. One of the first things photo students learn is the rule of thirds, a basic composition principle that suggests that you break down your image into equally sized thirds, like the squares in a tic-tac-toe board. When composing your image, place the most interesting parts of the images at the intersection of these points, which command the attention of the viewer. Change your position slightly to achieve even better result and take lots of pictures from many different angles and positions. As you compose your images, take some pictures from different perspectives—hold your phone over your head or crouch before triggering your shutter. Anything you do to change your viewpoint will improve the diversity of your content.

Your cell phone camera possesses a very wide-angle lens, which alters the appearance of distance in the image. While negative space can show scale or vastness, it often impacts your images. Use negative space artistically, but try to be as reductive as possible by leaving out anything that doesn’t enhance your composition.

Use the Auto Exposure (AE) Lock to help frame an image when the background is too bright or subject too dark (or vice versa). Get your desired exposure setting by tapping and holding the area of your composition that you want to adjust until your cell phone displays a box or circle (and AE or AEL) to lock your exposure until you take a photo. Reframe or adjust the image by just sliding your finger up and down next to the AE lock to change its contrast.

And finally, timing is everything. Being in the right place is hard to control, but the right time is not. Shoot around sunrise and sunset. The low angle of light during this ‘Golden Hour’ will dramatically enhance your images with little extra effort.
