Smart Street Lighting Workshop - August 15, 2018

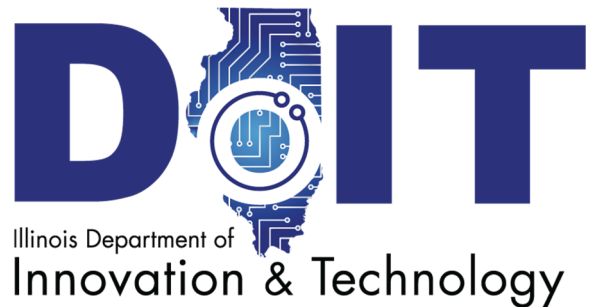

The Illinois Department of Innovation & Technology (DoIT) and the Illinois Century Network (ICN) will host a free workshop for municipalities interested in conversion to money-and-energy-saving LED street lights. After upgrading to LED street lights, municipalities typically see cost savings of greater than 50 percent due to the decreased energy usage of LED street lights versus original lights (high pressure sodium, mercury vapor, metal halide). The workshop will provide information about the Illinois Smart Street Lighting Master Contract Program. State master contract vendors, Johnson Controls, Globetrotters Engineering and TEN Connected Solutions will present. ComEd and Ameren will also be available to explain incentives. DoIT is Official!

The Illinois Department of Innovation and Technology (DoIT), formed by Executive Order in 2016, is now officially recognized as a state agency. DoIT is committed to the digital transformation of state government, improving cybersecurity and providing better services to Illinois citizens. "Illinois' digital transformation is being realized as a result of Gov. Rauner's vision and leadership," said DoIT Acting Secretary and State Chief Information Officer Kirk Lonbom. "We're making rapid strides toward improving operational efficiencies and offering state services through the convenience of mobility, while placing the security of data and operations at the foundation of all initiatives." For additional information, please see DoIT's strategies.
