Instructions

"Final Packaging Container" means the last vessel in which beer is held before (i) consumption by an individual on the brewer's licensed premises; (ii) being placed in a keg, bottle, or can for consumption by an individual; or (iii) being removed for additional fermentation and aging in a cask or barrel.

Your license category limits your annual production capacity for final packaging in the following manner:

Class 1 Brewer: No more than 930,000 gallons (all gallon maximums shall be reduced by the amount of beer produced for final packaging by commonly owned brewing entities).

Class 2 Brewer: No more than 3,720,000 gallons. (all gallon maximums shall be reduced by the amount of beer produced for final packaging by commonly owned brewing entities).
